Three Houses Burned Early Sunday.

Fire originating from an overheated stove in the home of Maggie Potts, colored, about 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning in Paris near the gas works, spread to the houses occupied by George Henderson and "Babe" Craig, also colored, completely destroying the two former and damaging the latter to a great extent.

An alarm was first sounded from Box 25, Cypress street near Boone, and the department responded to this call. Arriving at the box the firemen could not locate the cause of the alarm and the out tap was sounded. Immediately this was followed by an alarm from Box 12, in East Paris, and also one from Box 18, Main and Seventh.

By reason of the long run from Cypress street to East Paris, the flames gained considerable headway and the frame structures were being rapidly consumed when the firemen arrived. From the house occupied by Maggie Potts the flames spread to that occupied by George Henderson and other colored families. The firemen concentrated their efforts to checking the progress of the flames which were sweeping East and threatening other residences and there was a possibility of them reaching the warehouses of the G. G. White Distilling Co.

The fire burned in two the electric light wires in front of the houses together with the telephone cables of the East Tennessee Telephone Co. The electric wires in the fire and the firemen in fighting the fire as they were laying on the ground had not only to avoid coming in contact with them but also keep the stream from the hose off the wires in order to avoid being seriously shocked.

The houses occupied by Maggie Potts and George Henderson were owned by J. Ed Doyle and the loss is estimated at $1,000, while that owned and occupied by the Craig woman, was damaged to the extent of about $300 from fire and water. The amount of insurance is not known.

The occupants of the houses were fortunate enough to save a portion of their household effects, but those of Maggie Potts, in whose home the fire originated, either went up in the flames that burned the building or were damaged by water.

Order of Delivery Issued.

An order of delivery was issued in the county court yesterday against Alex Green, a tenant on the farm of A. D. Leach, of the Clintonville precinct, resulting in a horse which was held by Green being taken by Deputy Sheriff W. F. Talbott and turned over to Leach. In the spring it is stated Green purchased of Leach the horse which was to be paid for when the former received his share of the proceeds from the farm of Leach. Green, it is alleged, squandered the money he had received for his work on the farm and making no effort to pay for the animal. Mr. Leach demanded his property but Green declined to turn over the horse. Green came to town yesterday with the order of delivery met him driving the horse which was taken from the buggy by the officer and turned over to its rightful owner.

Ashbrook Distilling Company of Cynthiana, with which he has been connected for about twenty years.

He served four terms as Mayor, in all seventeen years. He retired from the office of Mayor in 1909. He had also served a number of years as a member of the Cynthiana city council. During his term as Mayor the water works and sewerage system of Cynthiana was completed.

Elks, and a member of the Christian church.

He was forty-eight years old, the son of the late Thomas V. Ashbrook and Artie Bellows Ashbrook. His father was a prominent distiller. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Nannie McGibben, daughter of the late T. J. McGibben, prominent distiller and stockman; two sons and two daughters, Read and Thomas Ashbrook of Cynthiana, Mrs. Thomas Allen of Paris, and Miss Artie Ashbrook of Cynthiana. He was a brother of the late T. Earl Ashbrook of Paris.

The funeral services of Mr. Ashbrook took place at the residence Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. E. Ellis, pastor of the Cynthiana Christian church. The services at the grave were conducted by the Cynthiana Lodge of Elks.
